The Ohio Alumnus

June, 1943

Month Passes --- Almost --- Without Serious News from Ohioans on the Fighting Fronts

ACTION on the news front, as far as Ohio University men are concerned, had been gratifyingly light and of not too serious a character up to the moment the editor began the preparation of copy for the June Alumnus. Immediately, it seemed, the bad news began to break. Since the last word has not yet been told concerning the North African action, a feeling of even temporary relief is, we suppose, unwarranted.

Lieut. (j.g.) Lewis Speiser, '41x, Athens, Navy Air Corps flier, was killed in a plane crash near Sanford, Fla., June 19, during a routine training flight. The cause of the crash has not yet been announced. Six others also were killed in the fatal plunge. Lieutenant Speiser was a member of varsity football squads in 1936 and 1938. His mother now resides in Los Angeles, Calif. Funeral services were conducted at Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Va.

BULLETIN: As The Alumnus was on its way to press word was received that Ensign Robert H. Raymond, '41, Columbus, was killed on the night of June 28, in a forced landing of his single-seated Navy plane one-half mile east of Vernalis, Calif. Until last October, Ensign Raymond's father had been professor of social administration at Ohio State University. His parents were visiting him at the time of the fatal mishap. The Navy flier was married on April 6 to Miss Harriet Hayes of Toledo.

A War Department casualty list released last month carried the name of Second Lieut. Clyde M. Banks, '43x, Canton, Air Corps navigator, among those who had been wounded in North Africa. No details were given. A June release, also lacking in details, indicates that Capt. Nathan D. Belinky, '36, Youngstown, and Pvt. William J. Haviland, '41x, Cleveland, are now prisoners of the Japanese.

First Lieut. John B. Swanson, U.S.A.

First Lieut. Robert E. Ligett, '41x, Middletown, reported in the May Alumnus as missing in action in the Middle Eastern area, is now believed to be a prisoner of war. Through church channels a Catholic priest in Middletown received word that Lieutenant Ligett was a "prisoner in transit" of the Italians—meaning, it is thought, that he was headed for a prison camp in northern Italy or Germany.

While participating in maneuvers in Mississippi, Private James W. Male, '43, Cleveland, had the misfortune to mash the index finger on his right hand so badly that it had to be amputated at the first joint. Private Male is in the meteorology squad of a field artillery battery at Camp McCain, Miss.

Posthumous awards of the Silver Star, Army Air Medal, and the Purple Heart have been made to First Lieut. Joseph C. Reed, '42x, Brooklyn, N. Y., a combat flier who was killed, February 15, in the North African area.

On the brighter side, however, is the word that the report of the death of Pilot Officer Eugene L. Rosner, '42x, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., while flying a bomber over the English Channel (see May Alumnus) was unfounded and that it arose out of a confusion of names in a casualty report. The Royal Canadian Air Force flier has written that "I have been over practically every big target that Adolph has had to offer in the past year." As chief pilot of a four-engined Lancaster, he has taken part in some of the raids over the German capitol. Concerning one of them he reported merely that "I had a nice trip to Berlin last night. It was heartwarming to see those fires burning so merrily on the ground as we left." He has also participated in long-range bombing raids, over the Alps.

Another Ohio University man has been made aide-de-camp to an Army general officer. First Lieut. John B. "Jack" Swanson, '39, Athens (see picture), who has recently returned north from maneuvers in Tennessee, is a staff aide to Brig. Gen. H. G.

Lieut. (j.g.) John Paul Jones, U.S.N.

Ensign Harold N. Carlisle, U.S.N.

Second Lieut. Clifford C. Cornell, Jr. (center)

Blakely of the Fifth Armored Division. Lieutenant Swanson's brother, Pvt. Phil R. Swanson, an Ohio University junior, is now at Camp Wheeler where officers and drill sergeants have, with characteristic martial reserve, but enthusiasm, nevertheless, praised the Ohio University contingent for their excellent basic training in the local R.O.T.C. unit.

Ensign Fred T. "Ted" Hopkins, '36, Parkersburg, W. Va., now on the U. S. S. _____ with the Atlantic fleet, was in the Army at Pearl Harbor at the time of the attack on the Hawaiian outpost but immediately thereafter asked for and received a transfer to the Navy. He saw considerable action in the South Pacific before being moved to the Atlantic area.

Putting two and two together seems to add up to Iceland as the present location for Second Lieut. Sherwood Jones, '42, Erie, Pa., on the basis of a letter recently received. Lieutenant Jones states that "after many months of traveling about, the January Alumnus has just reached me and you can bet your last remaining shoes that it was welcome. It was the first news from 'Ye Old Alma Mater' since graduation a year ago."

Because of its late receipt the picture (see page 2) of Lieut. (s.g.) John Paul Jones, '39, Athens, failed to find a place in the May Alumnus with the reference to this Ohioan who is serving at the submarine base in Pearl Harbor. Additional information concerning him has come to hand meanwhile, however. See "Marriages" on page 14. The picture was taken while he was still a midshipman at Annapolis.

Ensign Harold N. Carlisle, '39, M.S., '41, Marion (see page 2), is one of a group of American bacteriologists comprising a special commission which is working on problems in their field that have arisen during the war. At the present time, Ensign Carlisle and his colleagues are located somewhere in England, and, needless to say, the Navy has authorized no releases as to the nature of their work. For further information concerning this Navy man and his wife, turn to page 12.

Second Lieut. Clifford C. Cornell, Jr., '42x, Athens (see picture), now on a "honeymoon trip" to Mather Field, Calif., where he will pilot a fighter-bomber, was graduated from West Point Military Academy on June 1. In Memorial Day ceremonies he received his pilot's wings. He is shown in the picture with Gen. Harold H. Arnold, commanding general of the Army Air Forces, who is pinning a pilot's insignia on one of his classmates. For other news concerning Lieutenant Cornell see "Marriages" on page 14.

Reports of a veritable flood of new commissions have come to the editor's desk during recent weeks. Most of these were received by men recently drawn from the advanced course of the local R.O.T.C. program and from men finishing up work in officer candidate schools. Space will not permit the listing of all of these advancements, but to every one of the new officers, the editor gives a snappy salute and a lot of good wishes.

Lieut. Col. John M. "Jack" Emde,

'29, Akron, inspector general of 4th Force Headquarters in the Southwest Pacific, serving in New Zealand and the Fiji Islands, was returned to the States late this spring for treatment of an injured ankle at the Percy Jones General Hospital, Battle Creek, Mich. The injury was sustained while on a reconnaissance mission. When recovered, he expects to be assigned to the Adjutant General's School at Fort Washington, Md., as an instructor.

Capt. William L. Hudson, '27, a New Philadelphia physician and surgeon before receiving his commission in the Army Medical Corps, arrived safely in North Africa last month. Another Army "medico," Capt. Robert R. Boice, '31, Middleport, who has been undergoing intensive training in the treatment of tropical diseases, will soon be on his way to Venezuela to inspect hospitals on rubber plantations.

In the picture Lieut. Col. Melvin L. McCreary, '17, Youngstown, the Ohio University man is about to be decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross by Lieut. Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of the Sixth Army, for achievements in the New Guinea campaign. Colonel McCreary was decorated for directing mortar fire from a "hot spot" 25 yards from a Jap pillbox until it was destroyed, although he had been wounded. In the picture General Krueger is pinning the D.S.C. on Brig. Gen. A. Martin of Columbia, S. Car.

Lieut. Col. Melvin L. McCreary (right)

Lieut. (j.g.) James W. Bartlett, Jr., Clarksburg, W. Va. (see picture), is supply officer for the 2nd Naval Construction Battalion in the cold and foggy Aleutians. "As this is perhaps the world's most secretive area," he writes, "little can be said of what we are doing." Lieutenant

Lieut. (j.g.) James W. Bartlett, U.S.N.

Bartlett reported that Lieut. (j.g.) Rodney W. Main, '41, Cincinnati, naval aviator; Tom L. Bartlett, '42x, Cleveland; and Herbert P. Wolff, '42x, Columbus; were also located near him.

From an overseas spot of almost complete isolation, Pvt. Curt K. Bohnsack, '43x, Cleveland, working as a hospital laboratory technician, wrote, on St. Patrick's Day, that "I appreciate hearing news from my old school and about my friends more than pen can describe. I read The Ohio Alumnus from beginning to end with the intensity of a crossword puzzle enthusiast." The issues are reaching Private Bohnsack about three months late—but reaching him.

Sgt. Rex Koons, '35, Athens (see picture on page 10), popular campus band "maestro" of recent years, is a member of the Third Army Service Force's Band at Fort McPherson, Ga. At Camp Rucker, Ala., a previous post, he was attached to the 313th Station Hospital. On June 28, Sergeant Koons married Miss Mary Sullivan of Conyers, Ga.

Thrilled but not chilled were residents of San Francisco this spring at the sight of 116 Flying Fortresses passing over their city in a spectacular training maneuver. Bombardier on one of the big B-17s was Lieut. Brownie Kinney, '41, Belmont (see picture on page 12), now with his squadron in England. Huge formations, 30 in each flight, merged over the California city in the same formation as that used by the Fortresses in England in their cross-channel sweeps over Nazi-occupied Europe. The bombers were accompanied by escorts of fighter planes. Lieut. John E. Fawcett, '40, Orrville, a pilot and former squadron mate of Lieutenant Kinney, is also now in England.

Aviation Student Richard P. Harner, Coshocton (see picture on page 11), who was called to the service in his senior year, is the winner of first prize in the 1943 Emerson Prize Poem Contest. His poem, "Dreaming," is reproduced elsewhere in this issue. Cadet Harner is a member of Squadron B of the Army Air Force's 42nd College Training Detachment at Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn. The Emerson poetry prizes were endowed by W. D. Emerson, of the class of 1833.

Second Lieut. Janet E. Charters, '41, Williamsfield, of the Army Medical Corps, a home economics major, is serving as a dietitian at Camp Abbot, Bend, Ore.

Second Lieut. Josephine Steiner, '34, Bluffton (see picture on page 10), of the Army Nurse Corps, is now on duty in the Southwest Pacific. In a recent letter to her sister, Mrs. Geneva Steiner Dilley, wife of Ohio University's Registrar, Dr. F. B. Dilley, Lieutenant Steiner tells of meeting Major "Pete" Stephan, '35, at an officers' club. He and another officer came over to where she was playing the piano and requested some special music. In the conversation that followed they discovered they had attended Ohio University at the same time. Nurse Steiner plans to go "south to the mountains for some skiing in August." A picture of Miss Steiner in uniform was not obtainable.

While the accompanying picture of First Lieut. Emerson Houf, '40, Athens, and Mrs. Houf (Rosemary McHale, '40) was taken on their wedding day some fourteen months ago, it might well represent their happiness on June 16, the day of their reunion at the Cincinnati Union Station when the young Marine officer returned from overseas with a record of heroic service on Guadalcanal. From the jungle-covered island, Lieutenant Houf was evacuated last December to another spot in the Southwest Pacific and thence to a Naval hospital in Oakland, Calif., for treatment of malaria.

After a course in meteorology and the receipt of his commission, May 11, at New York University, Second Lieut. Seldon W. Terrant, '40, Cleveland (see picture on page 12), has been assigned to the Base Weather Station at Harding Field, Baton Rouge, La., as station weather officer. Mrs. Terrant, a former Cleveland girl, is with him.

ENTERED as second class matter, October 3, 1927, at the Postoffice at Athens, Ohio, under the act of March 3, 1897.

ANNUAL dues for membership in the Ohio University Alumni Association are $2.50, of which $1.50 is for a year's subscription to The Ohio Alumnus. Memberships are renewable on October first of each year.

DISCONTINUANCE—If any subscriber wishes his Alumnus discontinued at the expiration of his subscription, notice to that effect should be sent with the subscription, or at its expiration. Otherwise it is understood that a continuance is desired.

REMITTANCE should be made by check or money order, payable to the order of the Ohio University Alumni Association, and mailed to the Association, Box 285, Athens, Ohio.

Significant Contributions to War Effort Credited to Eastern Grad

Joseph E. Jewett, '18, Larchmont, N. Y., has recently accepted a position as engineering manager and consultant for the American Cyanamid & Chemical Corp., a company with 31 plants in this country and in South America. His headquarters are in New York City.

On April 9, the Lederle Laboratories, Inc., Pearl River, N. J., of which he was then chief engineer, was awarded the Army and Navy "E" for the economical and high-quality production of biological products badly needed by the Army and Navy for wartime use. These products include: typhus vaccine, gas gangrene antitoxin, tetanus toxoid, antipneumococcal sera, sulfonamids (sulfanilamide, sulfathiazole, sulfaznanidine, and sulfadiazine), dried human blood plasma, and human serum albumen.

The Lederle company was one of the first to get into successful production of blood plasma following entrance of the United States into the war. Mr. Jewett had charge of plant design for the manufacturing unit, and also made outstanding contributions to the development of the process which resulted in doubling the plant capacity, lowering the cost of production, and improving the quality of the product, a performance which placed the Lederle company at the top of plasma production.

The Lederle company also was first in the development of a successful large-scale process for the production of human serum albumen. Both dried plasma and serum albumen are used for treatment of shock due to wounds and they have already been responsible for the saving of thousands of lives among Army and Navy casualties. The development of serum albumen is an important one since it performs the same service to sufferers from shock as dried plasma and requires one-tenth the storage space needed for the latter. Blood used in the making of these life-saving materials is supplied by the American Red Cross from its various bleeding centers.

Mr. Jewett also contributed largely to the development of manufacturing units for the production of vitamin products which are assuming a position of large importance in the diets of wartime America.

Another accomplishment at the Lederle Laboratories credited to Mr. Jewett is the development of an electrical method for measuring temperatures of rabbits used in the testing of plasma and albumen for pyrogens.

Joseph E. Jewett, Nephew and Niece

Pyrogens are a sort of "gremlin" that gets into these products and causes a dangerous rise in body temperatures when injected.

Ohio Song, Sung by Dutch Nurse, "Catches On" With Airmen in Java

On the other side of the world, an Ohio University song cheered American and Dutch airmen through weary months of fighting against hopeless odds before the fall of Java.

The song, "Goodbye, My Old Ohio Baby," the words of which were written by David Todd, '29, was introduced by Mrs. Matilda den Ouden, a Dutch nurse, who learned it from an Army officer, a graduate of Ohio State University.

The song soon became a favorite of the famous 19th Bombardment Group, sometimes called the most decorated squadron of the war.

Last February, the 19th Bombardment Group returned to Texas. With them was petite "Tillie" den Ouden, who had escaped from Java to Australia, thence to America.

At the round of parties given the group, the songs previously sung in Java were enjoyed again, but the men could not remember all of the words of their favorite, "Goodbye, My Old Ohio Baby." So, in a letter addressed simply to Ohio State University, Mrs. den Ouden asked for help, stating that she would soon be on her way back to Australia "and I'd love to sing this song again for the boys over there."

Ohio State songbooks revealed no such song, but a member of the alumni office staff, vaguely remembering the title, referred the letter to Ohio University's alumni secretary, who provided the words and music.

"Certificates of Merit" Awarded On Service or Achievement Basis

The Ohio University Alumni Association initiated in 1940 the practice of honoring, annually, not more than ten alumni (A) who have achieved distinction in their various fields of professional, scientific, or artistic endeavor; or (B) who have demonstrated a loyal and active interest in their alma mater. The recognition takes the form of a Certificate of Merit.

In selecting the persons to whom certificates are to be awarded, the association officers and executive committee members strive earnestly to find alumni deserving of the honor, but they do not mean to imply by their action that they have necessarily chosen the ones most deserving or the only ones deserving of recognition. In scores of likely cases adequate information upon which to base selection is missing. Also, the number of persons eligible for consideration is many times larger than the selection limitation arbitrarily established. The persons named this year, and in the past, are regarded as typical in their merits of the large number of successful and loyal alumni.

Awards for 1943 have been voted to: Dr. Philip Zenner, '70, Cincinnati; Dr. Charles E. Skinner, '88x, Wilkinsburg, Pa.; Edward N. "Jim" McWilliams, '08x, Virginia Beach, Va.; Mrs. Rhys D. Evans (Mary Chappellear '09), Akron; Prof. Harry L. Ridenour, '12, Berea; Robert E. Rucker, '14, Columbus; Col. Wilbur R. McReynolds, '15, Washington, D. C.; Dr. William E. McVey, '16, Harvey, Ill.; Grosvenor S. McKee, '16, South Orange, N. J.; and Joseph E. Jewett, '18, Larchmont, N. Y.

The certificates will bear the signatures of the president, chairman of the executive committee, and secretary of the Alumni Association.

Unfortunately, space will not permit reproduction of the citations which will accompany the certificates. Several of the awards were made upon the dual basis of professional achievement and service to the university.

No More Magazines Until October

The current (June) issue of The Ohio Alumnus will be the last until October when the new publication year begins. To every reader, and especially to the men and women in uniform—the editor wishes as safe, happy, and satisfactory a summer as circumstances will permit.

On and About the Campus . . .

PRESIDENT W. S. Gamertsfelder addressed students of the summer semester at a convocation on June 18. Summarizing his remarks on the subject, "Education in Wartime," the university head stated: (1) That education in a well-organized country is directed to the preservation and development of its institutions and its way of life. Education in most countries, therefore, sooner or later becomes an instrument of international policy. (2) That the program of education within a nation will be reoriented in times of national emergency to meet particular needs. The shift in emphasis in the United States from general or liberal education . . . to an emphasis upon the acquisition of technical knowledge and skills is in harmony with this educational philosophy. (3) That notwithstanding the reorientation of education in the United States, education was never more essential to national welfare than it is today. Of the special emphases needed probably none is more important than clear and objective thinking. In time of war it is the most difficult. (4) That college students should be as energetic, as systematic, and as self-disciplined in their application to their studies as are the men and women in the armed forces. There are two tasks . . . the winning of the war, and the winning of a lasting peace. The first calls for a proficiency of technical knowledge and skill, while the latter calls for a proficiency of outlook and a realistic understanding of human affairs.

NOT IN MANY moons has Ohio University recorded a registration as low as 736, the enrollment total for the first eight-week term of the current summer semester. This figure compares with 1,272 for the corresponding term of the 1942 summer semester. The 736 students now on the campus are divided as follows: men, 229; women, 507. Of the total number, 72 are entering freshmen (44 men and 28 women).

CREDIT FOR the pictures on pages 6, 7, 9, and 10 of this issue is due The 1943 Athena in which they made their original appearance. The yearbook, which, due to wartime complications, did not make its appearance until after the close of the spring semester, has been distributed by mail to its subscribers. The book, one of the best in recent years, was edited by Thomas E. Ash-ton, Lancaster, a junior. The business manager was Irving "Pete" Miller, Reading, Pa., a senior. Pictured on this page are students practicing their newly-acquired skills in a Red Cross "First Aid" class.

First Aid Class and "Guinea Pigs"

UPON RETIREMENT, July 1, Dr. William Franklin Copeland, '02, will become professor emeritus of agriculture. The emeritus status was voted by the board of trustees at its May meeting. Dr. Copeland received the Bachelor of Philosophy degree in 1902 and the Master of Philosophy degree one year later. During the ensuing two years he was an instructor in botany at his alma mater. The period from 1905 to 1907 was spent at Clark University where he earned his Ph.D. degree. Returning to Ohio University in the latter year he has been a member of the faculty to the present time, holding a full professorship since 1910. Dr. Copeland, with Mrs. Copeland (Helen Reinher, '05), is spending the summer in Michigan. His daughter, Helen Martha, has just completed her sophomore year at Ohio University.

EPSILON CHAPTER of Sigma Pi fraternity returned its charter and severed all connections with its national organization on June 1. The action followed a special meeting, May 11, when members of the chapter unanimously voted to resume their former local name, Sigma Theta Gamma, and to return the fraternity rituals and the chapter charter to the national office in Elizabeth, N. J. Sigma Theta Gamma local, organized in 1909, was accepted as Epsilon chapter of Sigma Pi fraternity in the spring of 1910. The Ohio University chapter built its house, located at 15 Park Place, thirteen years later. The house is remaining open this summer under its new name with five men forming the nucleus of the organization.

BECAUSE OF MANY years of happy association with his alma mater as a member of its faculty, the late Dr. W. A. Matheny, '08, professor of botany, has left to Ohio University his library of some 900 volumes on botany, general science, and literature; a sum of $500 to be used toward the establishment of a fund for a new museum; and his residence on North Hill, following the clearance of indebtedness from the property. In appropriate ceremonies to be held next month a unique display of minerals, fossils, and other objects, described as an "Altar of Beauty," will be dedicated to the memory of Dr. Matheny who assembled it. The display, which, when subjected to the rays of a mercury vapor lamp, takes on amazingly beautiful and unsuspected color tones, annually attracts hundreds of visitors to the botany department on the second floor of the "Ag" Building. On the table bearing the display appears a placard on which Dr. Matheny inscribed the following sentiment: "On this Altar of Beauty objects respond to a ray of light turning it into the majesty of appealing colors. In like manner, perhaps, teachers are merely stimulating lights to youth."

TWO RESIGNATIONS have been accepted and four leaves granted in faculty ranks since the appearance of the last Alumnus. Dr. Grace Steininger, director of the School of Home Economics since 1939, has resigned to accept a teaching position at the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University . . . Dr. Florence Justin, also of the home economics department, has been granted a leave of absence to accept an overseas position with the American Red Cross as an assistant club director . . . James O. Stephan, assistant professor of industrial arts, has resigned to accept a position with General Motors in Detroit in the "green planning" department. Professor Stephan will be associated with 150 other experts in design, materials, cost accounting, etc., in the developing and testing of new ideas for both war and postwar products . . . Vincent J. Jukes, '30, assistant professor of dramatic art and speech, has been granted a leave to accept a commission as lieutenant (j.g.) in the Navy. He is to report June 28 at Fort Schuyler, The Bronx, New York City . . . A. H. "Jack" Rhoads, '29, instructor in physical welfare, received a commission as lieutenant (j.g.) in the Navy and is awaiting call to the indoctrination school at the University of North Carolina . . . Robert Quisenberry, '42, instructor in electrical engineering, has been granted leave for Navy service and will report for duty on July 1.

NOT A SINGLE fraternity house will open for chapter activities this fall if present prospects are borne out by the facts in September. It is expected that depleted "manpower" will make it impossible or impractical for the men's social groups to maintain their chapter homes. The Phi Kappa Tau, Beta Theta Pi, and Sigma Theta Gamma (formerly Sigma Pi) houses will be under lease to the University for the housing of women students. If more facilities are needed for the co-eds, leases will be negotiated with other fraternity groups. Girls in the fraternity homes will be under the same university regulations and control as those in the dormitories, and room assignments to them will be made by the Dean of Women. In order to accommodate the women living in the fraternity homes and other nearby organized housing units the Boyd Hall and Lindley Hall dining rooms will be operated on a cafeteria basis.

THE YOUNG MAN (above, to the right), with the instrument to his eye is not taking pictures. He is a student in the new wartime course, "Elements of Navigation," learning to "shoot the sun" with a sextant.

THE OHIO COLLEGE Association, comprising representatives of 43 Ohio colleges and universities, was organized July 2, 1867, at Springfield. Its first president was President Solomon Howard of Ohio University. The original member colleges were

Student "Shooting the Sun"

Marietta, Farmer's College (no one, now, seems ever to have heard of it), Mt. Union, Western Reserve, Wittenberg, Urbana, Antioch, and Ohio. The O. C. A. is the oldest and by far the most influential of any of the state organizations of its character. Its organization and procedure have been used as models in several states. Acting President W. S. Gamertsfelder, of Ohio University, is at present a member of the executive committee. Dr. R. L. Morton is chairman of the important committee on high school and college relations; Dean Irma E. Voigt is chairman of the committee on social life in the colleges; and Dr. J. P. Porter is a member of the committee on technical research.

ALTHOUGH not officially connected with the University, the directors of student work in the local churches are known to large numbers of alumni. Of interest to many, therefore, is the information that the Rev. T. W. "Ted" Shoemaker, Wesley Foundation minister of the First Methodist Church, has been assigned by Conference to the pastorate of the Methodist Church at Yellow Springs, that of Antioch College. Reverend Shoemaker has been succeeded in the local church by the Rev. Douglas McNaughton, Adrian, Mich., a recent graduate of the Yale Divinity School.

WHILE VISITING a son in law and daughter, Chief Specialist Herbert Kadison, '38, and Mrs. Kadison (Mary Morton, '36), at the Naval Training Station, Sampson, N. Y., recently, Dr. R. L. Morton, '13, professor of education, and Mrs. Morton (Jean Adams, '14) were entertained by Commander and Mrs. C. D. Gauque. Commander Gauque is a former member of the Ohio University faculty in the physical welfare division. The oldest son of the Gauques, Charles, is a captain in the Army Air Corps in England and has been credited with the downing of 15 Nazi planes. He returned from one flight over Germany with more than 100 holes in his ship and one wing partly gone. Another son, Henry, is in the U. S. Merchant Marine.

FIRST PRIZE in the Emerson Prize Poem Contest for 1943 was won by Richard P. Harner, Coshocton, with his entry, "Dreaming," which is reproduced below. A senior at Ohio University when his poem was submitted, Poet Harner is now a member of Uncle Sam's armed forces.

DREAMING

As you go dreaming, save a dream
for me,
A dream of gay, inconsequential
things
When all we were to know was yet
to be,
And young illusion colored all our springs,
Yes, as you dream I hope that you recall
A moon that dipped beneath an April sky,
That tiny inn we sought when night
would fall,
The candle light—the wine—and you and I.

There is an end of laughter in the rain,
There is an end of pleasant things we knew,
Yet, as the past cries out to me again,
it is a simple thing I ask of you
's you go dreaming—give a dream
for me,
Spun from the gauze of the mind
to be

General Doolittle and Captain Cole Bail Out of Jap Raider Over China

One of the nation's most envied airmen, Capt. Richard E. Cole, '42x, Dayton (see cover page picture), co-pilot with General James H. Doolittle on the Tokyo raid, is back in The States again after thrilling experiences in the Far East.

On a recent ten-day leave following his return from India, he had an opportunity to relate to his parents, admiring friends, and newsmen some of the facts concerning the visit to the Nipponese capital on April 18, 1942.

"General Doolittle handled the controls of our ship on the takeoff from the carrier and while the plane was over Japan," Captain Cole said. "I flew the ship part of the way. Part of the time it was on the automatic pilot."

So secret were preparations for the mission that of those participating in it, only Doolittle knew during the training period that they were headed for Tokyo.

The Doolittle plane, first to take off from the carrier, probably was the first to go over Japan. The Dayton flier said that during the raid he could plainly see the Japanese moving about on the ground. Declining to answer questions concerning his plane's work over Japan, he declared that "things happened so fast I don't remember much. The time seemed so short."

Running low on gasoline, Doolittle and Cole planned to drop down in the ocean but finally passed over land. The crew took to parachutes from an altitude of about 8,500 feet. "General Doolittle was the last man to leave the plane and I was next to the last," the co-pilot reported. All members of the five-man crew reached safety. "I landed in a tree about ten feet off the ground and my only injury was a black eye which I don't know how I received. I found General Doolittle in a small military compound."

Chinese guerrillas took the General and Captain Cole to the governor of the province where they met other members of their crew. Their meal there was the first in almost thirty hours—the first since breakfast on the carrier.

Most of the surviving members of the raid returned to the United States, but Cole was assigned to an American Air Force group in India.

"I was on four other raids during my service in India," he said, "but none of them compared to the Tokyo mission." Later he was assigned to an air transport command unit, flying the supply route from a point in India to Chungking, China.

Captain Cole was a student at Ohio University for two and a half years, leaving the campus in 1941. He is a brother of Martha E. Cole, '30, Dayton teacher.

Psychologist Clark Chosen Acting Head of State University at Kent

Dr. Raymond M. Clark, '17, professor of psychology at Kent State University, the state tax-supported institution in northeastern Ohio, was named acting president of the school, effective June 15, following failure of the Kent board of trustees to renew the contract of President Karl C. Leebrick.

Acting President Clark, who pursued his doctorate at Western Reserve University, has been associated with Kent State University since 1926. Before going to Ohio University's sister institution he was principal of Memorial High School, Campbell, from 1918 to 1926.

The Kent administrator is the husband of the former Miss Brooks Shields, '16, 2-yr. The Clarks have two sons, William R., a recent Kent State graduate now in the Army at Camp Lee, Va., and Robert S., who graduated from high school in absentia this month and is in the Army Air Corps training unit at Kenyon College.

Army Specialized Training Unit Cadets Come from West and South

The boys are here! The folks who adopted the "seein's believin'" attitude after the Navy's last-minute cancellation of plans for the establishment of a training unit at Ohio University and weeks of seeming delay in Army plans, may now convince themselves that the school is to have a share in training men for the armed forces.

At the time of going to press 316 cadets, assigned to the new Army Specialized Training Unit, had arrived on the campus for a training period of three 12-week terms which will get under way on July 12. A final total of approximately 500 men in the basic engineering unit is expected.

The new arrivals are principally Air Corps enlisted men from STAR units at Laramie, Wyo.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Pasadena, Calif.; and Raleigh, N. C. The cadets are being quartered in the Men's Dormitory and Howard Hall; Co. A in the former, and Co. B in the latter.

In addition to the previous R.O. T.C. staff, four new officers and eight enlisted men have been assigned to the staff of the local military organization. Lieut. Col. John E. Brannan will be commandant of both the R.O. T.C. and the A.S.T.P. units.

The Army will pay for instruction, use of buildings, housing, messing, and all academic equipment including books, paper, pencils, etc., for the cadets. The Army's guiding principle in negotiating a contract with a school is that "the institution shall not lose any money or make any money. After the contract expires the institution shall be left as the Army found it."

The cadets will receive all but a small fraction of their instruction from the university faculty. The conduct of instruction in academic work and the responsibility for its effectiveness rests with the institution.

Civil Air Patrolmen in Crash

While participating in recent maneuvers with the Ohio State Guard at Camp Zaleski, Capt. Gordon K. Bush, '24, pilot, and Lieut. P. F. Good, '26, observer, both of Athens and members of the Civil Air Patrol, suffered serious, though not critical, injuries when their plane stalled and crashed into trees at the encampment.

Varsity Sports Behind the Martial Eight Ball . . . Or What Do We Write About Now?

THE ACTIVITY pictured in the center of the page will be typical of the athletic program at Ohio University next year if present prospects hold. Tiddly-winks may be added for sake of variety, but such robust pastimes as football, basketball, and baseball will be continued on a vastly modified scale, if at all. As pointed out last month, however, prognostications are futile. Time will tell.

A TEMPORARY eight-college athletic conference is contemplated in the state by a number of the schools having naval training units. A meeting for further discussion of the matter is scheduled for July 11. Schools considering the new set up are Case, Baldwin-Wallace, Oberlin, Denison, Ohio Wesleyan, Miami, Bowling Green and Wooster. If such a loop is established, it will mean that numerous changes will be necessary in next season's football schedules.

A RECENT statement that "West Virginia is one football team the Bobcats have never beaten" has been challenged by Henry W. Lever, '08, football coach and athletic director at Linfield College, McMinnville, Ore. You win, Coach. The facts seem to be on your side.

Dear Clark—

The May issue gives an item on O.U.W.Va. football which I know you will be glad to correct. Ohio U. did win one game from West Virginia, and at Morgantown.

In 1906, we won 9-6 over a great team which had a clean record over strong Eastern teams up to that time. "Crum" Kahler drop kicked from mid-field in the last minute of play to break a 6-6 tie (field goals that year counted 3 points). "Doc" Gulin and Roscoe Heymen were two "All American tackles" that day. Bob Wood, Kahler, Tom Jones, and I were in the backfield—an all Phi Delta quartet.

"Gravy" Connett and "Dusty" Sites were the ends, and I am quite sure "Si" Allen, a truly great player, was at center. Enough, but we want that record straight.

Very sincerely,
"Hen" Lever, '08

ANGUS E. KING, '26, coach at Cincinnati's Withrow High School, was elected president of the Ohio High School Coaches Association at a meeting in Columbus last month. He succeeded Marion "Mike" Hagley, '36, veteran coach at North High School, Columbus, who will continue to serve on the board. President King is a brother of Dana M. King, '17, Hamilton High coach and former head football coach at the University of Cincinnati.

ONE DAY this month Harry M. Lever, U.S.A.M., Athens High School coach and athletic director, entered the Army. On that day Graver Merrill, Athens Messenger sports editor, paid Coach Lever a well-deserved tribute, excerpts from which are here reproduced.

Harry Lackey joined Uncle Sam's Army today. Wishing Harry luck in his career as a soldier, we will not bit out of place.

Luck hasn't played much of a part in Harry's life. We've known him since the day he reported to Butch Gruber's basketball squad for the first time. A pint-sized kid trying to break into what, at that time, was still a big man's game.

Throughout his career with the Bobcats and his subsequent coaching days, Harry has never left much to chance. His career has always been that hard-going would overcome adversity, that better than anything else. The results he obtained testify to the soundness of that theory.

Since he took over at Athens High the interests of the boys in the school were placed ahead of everything else with Harry. His own activities were altered and adjusted to make it possible for him to devote as much time as possible to the physical welfare program he set up. During the summer months he worked from morning until dark at the playground to "give the kids a break."

Several nights a week during the school year Harry went back to the gym to direct intramurals for those boys who were either too young or not able to make the grade in interscholastic competition. He figured these boys had as much right to the benefits of supervised play as the athletes. He saw that they got it even though it didn't leave him much leisure time.

In the 13 years we've known him he has never been one to ask favors. He's worked for everything he has achieved.

That's the way he's going into the Army. He has no expectations of coming out a general or even of making a non-com rating. But if these things come about through individual merit, it's a good bet Harry will have no trouble without much trouble.

WITH BOBCATS In Service—Lynn Hurt, W. McSherry, '41, Shiloh, center for Coach Tom Leuen's "Big Six" basketball team, a Texas country boy, will be married, July 12, to Sara Gail Morrison of Marietta, La. Harry is an instructor in the Army's Advanced Navigation School at Marietta.

John Zahndt, '42, Willsville, a cross-country runner, married on May 20 (don't know her name) and received a commission as first signaller May 24. They are living in Boston.

Here and There Among the Alumni

Miss Eva Loudon, professor of English in the Women's College of Rutgers University, was an Alumni Office visitor on June 4. Miss Loudon is a granddaughter of COL. DEWITT CLINTON LOUDON, '50, for whom Loudonville, Ohio, was named. In a letter to the late DR. C. L. MARTZOLFF, '07, former professor of history and alumni secretary at Ohio University, H. C. LOUDON, a brother of Colonel Loudon, states that "I was a student at Athens in 1863 and left there with the lecturer on business psychology, has been confined to his home in La Canada, Calif., for the past six months with little hope of getting about again. "My present illness," he writes, "first caught up with me in 1926... Now I am confined to my home. Heart trouble..." In his letter, Mr. Blower paid tribute to members of the Ohio University faculty whose helpful influence he acknowledges and appreciates. The Californian has a son now attending Eliot Junior High School in Pasadena who is 6'2" tall and was a member of the Pasadena junior high football championship team last year.

Upon the basis of an interest created by Prof. George Lyman Kittredge of Harvard University, PROF. HARRY L. RIDENOUR, '12, head of the English department at Baldwin-Wallace College, began a collection of Ohio ballads and folk songs about eight years ago. Meanwhile, upon his own initiative, and with the cooperation of others, notably Mrs. Ridenour, who died four years ago, he has collected more than 300 separate and distinct songs. For many of these songs he has from two to twenty-eight recordings. A recording is the gathering in writing of the words and music, or the words, or the music, of a traditional song. Traditional songs are those which people have learned from other people and not from books—"songs which remain in the memory of the singer or in the memory of someone who has heard the singer, and songs which may be preserved in copybooks, diaries, old Bibles, stored in attics and trunks, etc." They are songs which normally do not have a known author or composer. Professor Ridenour is chairman of research in folk music of the State Federation of Music Clubs, and has given more than 60 radio talks on ballads and folk songs, appearing on some nationally broadcast programs. His articles on the subject have appeared in the "American Scholar" of Phi Beta Kappa, and in two magazines of national circulation, Musical America and Musical Courier. He has lectured widely on his research, traveling as far as Richmond, Va., where he appeared before the Modern Language Association, and Columbia, S. C., where he addressed the Southeastern Folklore Society.

Methods of visual perception developed by DR. SAMUEL RENSHAW, '14, professor of psychology at Ohio State University, have been adopted by the U. S. Navy for the training of its airplane pilots in the Navy Recognition School at Ohio State University. The officers trained in the school go out as instructors in training camps all over the world. The methods in the course are a military secret, but the training serves to prepare the officers to recognize more quickly the identity of approaching craft, surface or air.

JAMES E. KINNISON, 15x, Canton lawyer and former Ohio University trustee, has threatened a tax payer's suit to halt Stark County's participation with Summit County in a new two-county airport project to be developed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration at a cost of $2,000,000. Lawyer Kinnison claims that his city's initial contribution of $100,000 will be out of proportion to the benefits to be derived from the airport; that Akron will be the chief beneficiary.

F. DARRELL MOORE, '16, former professor of accounting and business statistics at Rennselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., is now located in Salt Lake City, Utah, where he holds a high executive position with the Remington Arms Company in the management of a huge ordnance works. Mr. Moore married a classmate, Hazel B. Cline, who died in 1933. He has two children, Mary Ann, age 12, and Charles, 10.

Paying her first visit to the campus in 17 years, Mrs. D. Barclay Welch (ANNA GILLILAN, '17), Springville, Utah, was an Alumni Office visitor on June 22. Mrs. Welch was accompanied by her daughter, Gertrude Ann, a senior at La Verne College in California. A son, David Barclay, Jr., is in the Army Air Corps at Wichita, Kan. Mr. Welch is an official of the Columbia Steel Corp., a U. S. Steel subsidiary.

Death came on May 26 to the Rev. Edward Blake, retired bishop of the Methodist Church in the Detroit area, living in Coral Gables, Fla. Bishop Blake was the husband of the former MARY JANE EATON, '17, onetime head of the Crandon International Bible Institute in Rome, Italy. Mrs. Blake survives him.

Among those assisting Gov. John W. Bricker with entertainment of the members of the Governors' Conference held in Columbus this month, were JOHN W. GALBREATH, '20, and Mrs. Galbreath (HELEN MAUCK, '19). Mrs. Galbreath was official hostess to Mrs. Earl Warren, wife of the Governor of California, while the Galbreaths entertained all of the governors and their ladies at their farm near Columbus. Mr. Galbreath is a nationally-known realtor and sportsman. On NED J. WOLFE, '04, 2-yr., Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., age 57, died June 23, at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., following a surgical operation. For many years a businessman in Athens, Mr. Wolfe moved to Florida in 1925, where he has since engaged in the real estate business. His survivors are a wife, a daughter, and a son, WILLIAM A., '30, in the U. S. Navy.

HENRY W. LEVER, '08, director of athletics and head football coach at Linfield College (McMinnville, Ore.), reports that his son, a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps, is just completing a year's service in the Southwest Pacific.

MRS. GEORGIA CHREADLE POTTS, '12, 2-yr., age 53, former teacher in Athens, Cleveland, and Youngstown, died in University Hospital, Columbus, June 12, after a long illness. Mrs. Potts was the wife of Lieut. Col. Harry N. Potts, state property officer in the Adjutant General's Office.

Distressing to friends of a nation-wide acquaintance will be the news that GEORGE C. "FUZZY" BLOWER, '12, retired

Sergeant Rex Koons

June 26. Best Seller, a horse of which he is co-owner, won a $10,000 stake race in Chicago.

Tragedy in its direst possible form, overtook the Lester D. Whites soon after they left their home in Adrian, Mich., en route to Belpre, Ohio, to be present for the 50th wedding anniversary of the parents of Mrs. White (IRENE OVERMYER, '22, 2-yr.). When a truck ahead of them stopped without warning, another truck following close in their rear, crashed into their car killing Mr. White and two of the three children. Both Mrs. White and the third child were seriously injured.

Although, Dr. HARRY E. LEFEVER, '23, Columbus brain surgeon, has received frequent mention in The Ohio Alumnus, there has always been ample reason for it. His latest distinction is election to membership in the Harvey Cushing Society. The membership of this honorary society, named for the late Doctor Cushing, America's foremost brain specialist, is limited to twenty-five.

MURRAY D. SHAFFER, '23, 2-yr., chief engineer for the State of Ohio Department of Highways, told the nearly 1,000 participants in a highway planning conference held in Columbus recently that the state's post-war construction program includes 900 highway projects involving $150,000,000.

An instructor in foreign languages in a Charleston, W. Va., high school since his graduation, CECIL D. KELLEY, '24, has been commissioned a first lieutenant in the Army Air Corps and ordered to report to Randolph Field, Texas.

Out in Pasadena, Calif., HAROLD J. PAUL, '25, is doing double duty as a teacher. Each day during the past year after the close of his schedule in one of the junior high schools, he has hastened to the California Institute of Technology where he has taught warcraft courses from 4:30 p.m. until 10:30 during the week and until 12:30 on Saturday nights. "H. J." is a former industrial arts instructor and critic teacher in High School.

Mrs. Fred E. Luchs (EVELYN COULTER,

'27), attended meetings of the executive committee of the National Council of Church Women in New York City last month. Mrs. Luchs is on the Ohio University staff this summer as a part-time lecturer in elementary education. Her husband is minister of the Athens Presbyterian Church.

LILLIAN S. DENNER, '29, for many years a teacher in Bloom Junior High School, Cincinnati, has been accepted for service by the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps and is now in training in a W.A.A.C. school. Auxiliary Denner, an ardent supporter of the war effort, has already donated six pints of blood to the Red Cross and does not expect to stop short of a gallon.

CARROLL H. KITTS, '29, who is completing his theological work in August at the Princeton Theological Seminary, expects to be ordained in Buffalo, N. Y., later in the fall. He is now living in Kingston, N. J., where he is serving a church. His wife is the former CLARICE MARTIN, '30. There are two children.

For many years a member of the circulation staff of the Athens Messenger DWIGHT E. HERRON, '29, is now in the circulation department of the Youngstown Vindicator. His wife is the former LOUISE BARTON, '36x. The Herrons have a son Philip.

OLIVER C. BRUMM, '30, of the Cleveland office of the F. B. I., was one of two government agents who turned up the evidence upon which seven officials of a large Cleveland war industry were indicted by a Federal grand jury for violation of the Wartime Sabotage Act and the Federal Fraud Statute. The company was engaged in the manufacture of superchargers for airplane engines.

JOHN W. HILBERT, '30, professor of speech and drama at Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., has returned to Cleveland Heights' Cain Park theater for his third season, this time with the title of production manager. This is the sixth season for the municipal outdoor theater. Three light operas and a number of dramatic performances are scheduled for the 1943 season.

LEE T. SELLERS, '31, Pittsburgh, Pa., is editor of The Dravo Slant, a newspaper published by the Dravo Construction Co., for its war-working employees. The company is turning out the new, speedy and highly effective Destroyer Escort (D. E.) and a new Landing Ship for Tanks (L. S. T.). The latter type is built with a bow end which opens up and permits the exit of its motorized cargo. From its picture the L. S. T. would appear to be a craft of sea-going caliber, rather than a mere landing barge for coastal duty only.

Without a coach and accompanied only by their principal, MARGARET J. LAVERTY, '31, a five-man squad from Rome-Stewart High School, Stewart, entered the State Interscholastic Track Meet at Columbus last month and proceeded to annex the Class B championship title. Credit for the showing of the champs is due CLIFFORD R. GLAZIER, '23, former coach who was inducted into the army and later released on account of a physical disability.

HERBERT G. DAVIS, '32, M.S., '40, will continue with a year abroad at the Wood Leland mission. A member of the faculty of the high school formerly Superintendent Davis has cleared a new administrative position in the ranks of the past school year.

Mrs. MARGARET FREDERICK DAVIS, of Ohio University, has announced the naming of her daughter, MARY DAVIS, after her father, John H. Davis, Zanesville, a former president of Ohio State University.

JOHN H. HITCHCOCK, of Ohio University, assistantship in the department of education at the University of Minnesota during the past year.

NELLIE R. TORRANCE, '34, is a

professor of home economics at Skidmore College, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., has accepted a position overseas with the American Red Cross.

W. CONLEY SMITH, '35, M.S., '39, a professor of electrical engineering at the University of Maryland, going to the College Park school last February after serving on the faculty of the University of Miami (Fla.) as associate professor of physics. Mrs. Smith (JANE FOSTER, '39x) has been teaching in the London Hill School in Maryland.

DR. CLYDE E. GLEIM, '38, is one of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company's research chemists who have recently moved into Goodyear's new $132,000 research laboratory, probably the most modern in the entire country. Dr. Gleim received his advanced degrees at Ohio State University and Pennsylvania University. Other research interests in the Goodyear laboratory are EMMENT J. GLAZIER, '38, and DR. CHARLES R. MILNE, '35x. Recently Dr. Gleim received a master's degree at Akron University, while Dr. Milne got his Ph.D. at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

WILLIAM A. HARRIS, '36, is a research chemist in the Physical Chemistry Office at Ohio University, having accepted his present position in Dayton, Hi-service to his alma mater was continuous from the date of graduation until last month, with the exception of two years, on leave, during which he earned an M.B.A. degree at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

ROBERT L. HARTFORD, '36, would like to purchase a copy of The 1935 Athena. His address: Koppers Building, Pittsburgh, Pa. For another mention of this Ohioan, see "Births" on page 15.

After approximately three months in a supervisory position with the Army Air Service Command at Patterson Field, Second Lieut. Brownie Kinney, U.S.A.

Dayton, THERESA M. HEISER, '36, resigned to return to the Ohio U. campus where she will be associated with the Service Bureau. She was for several years secretary to Dean Irma E. Voigt.

ENSIGN DONALD S. SHAFER, '37, a coach last year at Columbus Academy, a private school for boys in the Ohio capital, is now in the Navy's physical fitness school at the University of North Carolina.

DONALD E. WILLIAMS, '38, is a junior accountant with the firm of Keller, Kirchner, Martin & Clinger, C. P. A.'s in Columbus. Associated with this firm are JOHN G. KELLER, '22, and LAURENCE D. KELLER, '22.

JACK E. BAKER, '38, formerly with the Radio Corporation of America in New Jersey, Michigan, Missouri, and Indiana, has been granted a release by his company to serve in the U. S. Navy.

REV. JOHN W. SEAY, '39, after one year as assistant pastor of the First Methodist Church in Sacramento, Calif., has returned to Ohio to serve as Wesley Foundation minister and director at the Indianola Methodist Church in Columbus. Mrs. Seay is the former LAURA A. KNOOP, '42, an Ohio University Phi Beta.

ENSIGN HAROLD N. CARLISLE, '39, M.S. '41, (see page 2), has distinguished himself on the Navy's medical commission now serving in England. One of his fellow members is Dr. W. B. Sarles, secretary of the Society of American Bacteriologists. Others are men equally prominent in the field of bacteriology. At Ohio University Ensign Carlisle was a graduate assistant to Dr. CARL A. FREY, '25, in 1940-41. The following year he was a graduate assistant in bacteriology at Ohio State University where, in 1942-43, he was a Rockefeller Foundation Fellow. Mrs. Carlisle, a medical technician in Columbus, is the former MARGARET LININGER, '39.

GENEVIEVE PAIS, '39, is a physical welfare instructor at Ohio University this summer. During the regular school year she teaches health and "fizz ed" to girls in the Lakewood schools. In the summer of 1940 she attended the Bennington School for Dance.

A major in the U. S. Marine Corps at the age of 25 is the latest distinction claimed by RAYMOND SCHWENKE, '39, now at an undisclosed base in the Southwest Pacific. He was an aide to Gen. Arthur A. Vandegrift during the Guadalcanal action, and is attached to the divisional operations staff at his present post. His wife is now living in San Francisco.

SGT. ROBERT C. PLANT, '40, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, seeing service in Ceylon, will soon complete his third year in uniform. Sergeant Plant is a native of Canada.

VIRGINIA R. MULLETT, '40, a former junior high school instructor in Youngstown, is now with the national headquarters of the American Red Cross in Washington, D. C.

A motor machinist's mate, second class, is NAVY MAN HOWARD M. KAHN, '40, now stationed at State Pier, New London, Conn.

MRS. ANNE RODECAP COMER, '40, is a former Girl Scout commissioner for the city of Athens. Right now she and other Girl Scout leaders are busy with a summer program which includes camping at Camp Rotan, near Athens. She is also engaged in Red Cross work and other wartime activities. Her husband, W. A. Comer, is director of sales research for the McBee Company, Athens' lone but exceedingly important war industry. The McBee Company prints and produces record-keeping forms and equipment which are used by every branch of the military and naval services and by such government agencies as W.P.B., O.P.A., O.E.M., and O.C.D. Soldiers' qualification cards have been printed by the millions, while a "Keysort" machine for use with them is an important McBee product.

From a faulty news source the editor has learned that ODEN F. LIBBEY, '41, Hillside, N. J., and his bride of recent date were campus visitors early this month. The reporter could tell us only that Mrs. Libbey's first name is Alyce. With that clue, who can further identify the young lady? Bridegroom Libbey is associated with the C & G Tool Co., East Orange, N. J., of which his father-in-law is owner and president.

MRS. BETTY BEDNASZ REICHERT, '41, an Ohio University Phi Beta, has just completed a year in the School of Social Service Administration of the University of Chicago under a Commonwealth Fellowship. Married since leaving the campus, the date and other details of the happy event are not a matter of Alumni Office record.

One fine offer after another has come to MARY ELIZABETH LASHER, '42, who was graduated "with distinction" last month from the Tohe-Coburn School of Fashion Careers in New York City. In the May Alumnus it was announced that Miss Lasher would be a member of the editorial staff of MADAMOISELLE Magazine. Latest word, however, is that she has accepted a position on the editorial staff of Editor and Publisher, the outstanding newspaper trade journal.

Second Lieut. Seldon W. Terrant, U.S.A.

Miss Lasher is the first woman ever to be placed on the editorial staff of that 76-year-old publication.

ELLEN DUER, '42, a former teacher in the high school at Cumberland, is now a senior engineering aide with the Army Signal Corps in Detroit, Mich.

When HELEN GANZ '42, a New York girl working on the news staff of Yonkers Herald Statesman, read in the May Alumnus of the presentation to Ohio University of a bust of Thomas Ewing, she forthwith did some research in the Ewing history and background and turned out a column-length story for her paper. Some of the Thomas Ewing descendants are prominent citizens of Yonkers and owners of the Alexander Smith and Sons Carpet Company, one of the largest of its kind in the country.

PVT. WILLIAM H. GREGORY, '42, is at Amarillo Field, Amarillo, Texas, learning how to service, repair, and "keep flying," the famous B-17 Flying Fortresses. Not long ago he ran across BETTY VERBA, '36, dining room manager at the Amarillo Service Men's Club.

CORP. MELVIN WEINSTEIN, '43x, now in North Africa, craves letters from his friends and former campus associates. He asks that this fact be made known through the columns of The Ohio Alumnus. The Weinstein address: 439th Bomber Squadron, 319th Bomber Group, A.P.O. #520, c/o Postmaster, New York City.

With the Class of 1943

Former varsity debater and cheerleader JOHN H. STAUFFER, Erie, Pa., a junior last year, now an officer candidate at Fort Benning, Ga., finds his social life reduced almost to the vanishing point. In the accompanying picture Johnny's shown, according to The 1943 Athena from which it was taken, trying to convince the girl friend, JEAN ZINK, Willoughby, "that two can live as cheaply as one."

MARY L. STANHAGEN, Amanda, has accepted an appointment to the Navy's Japanese Language School at the University of Colorado. Only degree-holding members of Phi Beta Kappa are eligible for the work designed to train translators and interpreters. The course calls for 1250 class hours and 250 hours of examination plus 3000 hours of study—all in one year. It is the equivalent of 18 years of a standard college language course. Mary hopes to be one of the first to enter Tokyo.

Aviation Student RICHARD J. SMITH, Canton, called to the colors late in his senior year, is a member of the College Training Detachment at Memphis State College, Memphis, Tenn. A major in painting and allied arts, he has just completed a 7' x 11' mural in the hall of the administration building at M. S. C. The central figure in the picture is an aviator scaled in heroic proportions against a background of mountains, hangars, and planes and is entitled "The Men We Look Up To."

RUTH G. LEVINE, Brooklyn, who expects to become a Spanish interpreter, is enrolled in the summer session of the University of Mexico in Mexico City.

Among the newly commissioned officers, and their present locations: LIEUT. DONALD A. LARSON (Geneva, Ill.), Marine Barracks, Quantico, Va.; LIEUT. ROBERT E. JOBE (Springfield), Camp Roberts, Calif.; LIEUT. ELLSWORTH J. McCUNE (Galion), Army Electronics Training Center, Harvard University; LIEUT. ROBERT W. EDWARDS (Lancaster), report of station not yet received; LIEUT. ERNEST MOBLEY (Shadyside), Infantry Training Replacement Center, Camp Wolters, Texas; LIEUT. STANLEY E. RUE (Ft. Wayne, Ind.), Camp Campbell, Ky.; LIEUT. WILLIAM E. McQUESTION (Seville), Base Weather Station, Stockton Field, Stockton, Calif.

JUNE MARTIN Malta, and SOPHIA MASICH Girard, are enrolled in the Statler Hotel Training Course in Washington, D. C.

SUE MAHRER, Cleveland, is service editor of the Cleveland News.

In the Navy's Midshipmen's School at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.: CARROLL I. WILLIAMS, JR., Maud; DONALD L. COOVERT, Akron; WILLIAM E. BACON, Canton; ROBERT L. JOHNSON, Waverly; LESTER H. KLAY, Sardis; KENNETH M. LEIGHTON, Yantic, Conn.; GRANT L. OHL, Youngstown; and HARLAN R. HOSCH, Danville, Ill.

MRS. FLORENCE SZIBA FELTHER, Cleveland, is living at the Graduate House at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., while working on a masters degree in the theater arts.

"They're In the Army Now" SYLVAN S. DAVIS (West Portsmouth), Camp Wolters, Texas; DONALD H. IRONS (Ambridge, Pa.), and JOHN R. BALMER (New Philadelphia), Fort Benning, Ga.; JOHN P. HLINKA (Parma), Camp Berkeley, Texas; THOMAS EAGHIS (Gallipolis), Fort Riley, Kansas; JOHN H. WILDER (Cleveland Heights), Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. These are only a few of the 1943 men who have donned the khaki since graduation day.

MADOLON JANDLS, Chauncey, is enrolled in the University of Chicago for graduate work and is also doing part-time work as an instructor in physical education in the Englewood Branch of the Chicago YWCA.

PVT. ROBERT M. FINLEY, East Liverpool, has been assigned as an instructor to 120 illiterates at Camp Wheeler, Ga. This assignment is in addition to his basic training course.

MARJORIE A. CAPPER, Cleveland, is a student dietitian at the Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit, Mich. FRANCIS TOLSON is engaged in the same activity at Peoples' Hospital in her home city, Akron. CAROLYN G. BURTON, Martins Ferry, and PHILLYA WALSH, East Falls Church, Va., other home "cc." majors, are student dietitians, respectively, at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, and the Army Medical Center, Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

BETTY J. COURTNEY Chauncey, is associated for the summer with the Wolfe County Work Camp, Hazel Green, Ky., a camp sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee and the Church of Christ. It is a religious and a social service project.

SHIGEHARU TAKAHASHI, whose parents are members of a Japanese relocation colony at Topaz, Utah, is enrolled as a student at the University of Chicago.

SARAH M. THOMPSON, Mahoningtown, Pa., is a social director of the Jameson Memorial Nurses' Home at New Castle, Pa.

STEPHEN M. DAVIS, Athens, is the R. O. T. C. military property custodian at Ohio University.
